Submitting your dissertation to ProQuest/UMI

Prepared by
Suzanne Araas Vesely, PhD
Go to this link

• http://www.etdadmin.com/mum
...and click on the “submit” link at the top:
Create an account

1. Create an account here

2. You can come back and enter your username and password later
Creating an account, continued

Create a username and password to get back into ETD Administrator
Submit your dissertation
Submitting your dissertation: introductory page

You can submit a draft of your dissertation here and still revise it at this stage, before the administrator sends it to ProQuest. NOTE: once submitted, you will not be able to see it until it is reviewed by the administrator—DO NOT upload another dissertation—contact the administrator if it is not promptly made available to you.
Submission Instructions

1. Be sure that you have a PDF of your dissertation with the abstract and the signatures of your director on the abstract and the director and your committee on the dissertation.

2. Then choose your subject categories. These will be the keywords to find your dissertation in a search.

3. Then click “Continue”
The next page goes over your publishing options...
...and your access options, useful if there is a copyright problem
Proquest/UMI gives you an agreement to read and “accept/decline” buttons at the bottom
In the agreement page there is also a set of guidelines for how to prepare the document.

PhD candidates, take note and follow guidelines to avoid revisions later.
Once you accept ProQuest’s terms, you enter your contact information:

Notice that you can navigate on the left sidebar links, and this helps you know where you are in the submission. Do not use back buttons; it could cause errors in your submission.
Be sure you keep ProQuest current on your address if you want to receive royalties
Next you enter the information about your dissertation...
...including your advisor’s name, department, committee, keywords, subject categories, a copy of your abstract (see formatting hints if you want to bold parts, etc.,) and primary language. Save and continue after carefully rechecking your information. E.g., be sure your abstract is fully entered.
Upload the dissertation. It will not be submitted until the administrator at MUM approves your upload.

Read carefully the information about embedding the fonts. Review the very complete help pages if you are not sure you have done it.

PhD Candidates: this is another thing to do right the first time.
The next page is the supplemental files; e.g., permissions from publishers
An optional page to leave the administrator a note
You can request that ProQuest register your copyright (strongly recommended)

Note the $55 fee for this service, which shows evidence that you own the work.
Next, specify the copies that you want to order for yourself
Enter your shipping address...
Submission summary: automatically reports anything left undone

Once you submit your dissertation and supporting materials, it will be submitted in turn to the administrator for review. If it looks OK, I send it to ProQuest/UMI